MEMORANDUM FOR 57th Military Police Company, Schofield Barracks, HI 96857

SUBJECT: Command Philosophy

1. This philosophy will guide the way we do business in 57th Military Police Company. It outlines the foundation for productive and successful daily operations at Schofield Barracks, Hawaii.
2. Army Values provide the basis for everything we do. I expect everyone to embrace and demonstrate these values at all times, even when no one is around to observe your actions. Our goal is to be a disciplined, cohesive, and well trained company. I also expect every leader and Soldier within the company to live by the five rights.
  - a. Be at the right place.
  - b. At the right time.
  - c. In the right uniform.
  - d. With the right equipment.
  - e. With the right attitude.
3. I consider every Soldier in the company a leader. Competent leaders personify our Army Values, Soldier's Creed, and Warrior Ethos. Regardless of whether you are in a leadership position or not, I expect every Soldier to think and act like a leader.
4. As your commander, I will demonstrate and accept nothing less than high standards no matter how small the task. My intent is to ensure leaders and Soldiers are equipped with the tools, skills, and resources needed for combat readiness and professional development. I am excited to be your Commander. With hard work and positive attitudes, we will take our company to a higher level.
