Public invited to Fort Shafter Centennial Celebration June 22

The little tractor that can. One of the technology stars of the Army is a 27-inch-long, radio-controlled "bomb squad" robot used to check out suspicious vehicles in Iraq. The public can see it and other Army equipment displays at Fort Shafter's Centennial celebration on Friday, June 22, 10 am-5 pm. Buses will shuttle the public from the parking area at Shafter Flats to Fort Shafter's Palm Circle.
